

The debate continues within the bluegrass community about who will carry traditional bluegrass music to future generations. The heart of the debate comes down to how some feel the art form must change to be more commercially viable to the widest possible audience. That's fine for them, but within the same artistic community there are those that prefer to preserve the unique musical heritage of the first

Lorraine Jordan & Carolina Road

The song features powerful performances by two of the most soulful, 1st generation inspired voices of their generation, IBMA "Male Vocalists of the Year", Danny Paisley & Junior Sisk, plus the talents of internationally acclaimed artists such as SPBGMA "Female Vocalist of the Year, Lorraine Jordan, and "Banjo Player of the Year", Ben Greene. The all-star cast also includes the talents of journeymen vocalists, Tommy Long and Randy Graham, bassist Terry Smith, and twin fiddles by Josh Goforth, and Matt Hooper... just the way the father of bluegrass music, Bill Monroe, would have wanted it.

To meet the needs of event producers with an eye on bringing world-class traditional bluegrass music to their event, Jordan Entertainment and the Graham Talent Group have joined in packaging an exclusive, limited number of engagements combining commanding, high energy performances by Danny Paisley & Southern Grass, The Junior Sisk Band, and Lorraine Jordan & Carolina Road. Surprisingly affordable, True Grass is a show traditional bluegrass fans won't soon forget.

bluegrass is the real deal... it's "TRUEGRASS", and provided the initial inspiration to Lorraine Jordan, and songwriter, David Stewart's, compelling answer to the musical question, "why can't bluegrass, just be true grass again?"
